POPPY DAY SATURDAY

On Saturday, the women of the American Legion Auxiliary—mothers, wives, sisters and daughters of the men who served in the two World Wars, will again ask the American people to wear the poppy in tribute to the war dead.

More than one hundred thousand women have volunteered to distribute the poppies which have been made by the disabled comrades of the dead.

From memory of the great achievements of America in the past we can draw inspiration for the nation's present struggles. Wearing the little red flower of our heroic dead will help rekindle the spirit of patriotism that is needed as vitally in America today as in wartime. So long as that spirit holds dominance in American hearts we need not fear for the future of the country. So long as millions of Americans wear the poppy each year to honor the war dead, we may be sure that in any crisis there will be millions ready to serve and sacrifice for America. Buy a poppy on Saturday.

Police Urge Great Caution Over Memorial Day

Urging drivers to use exceptional care during the coming long Memorial Day weekend, our State Police warn: "Weekends are traditionally dangerous on the highways, and when a major holiday falls during the weekend period conditions are especially hazardous."

They point out that it is wise to allow plenty of time for that holiday automobile trip—plenty of time going and plenty of time for the return trip. The unusually heavy traffic will mean extra time on the road.

"Start early and take it easy," they warn. "Remember, hurrying on the highway is definitely inviting serious trouble at any time. This is especially true during a holiday period. The driver who is in a hurry is very likely to commit traffic violations involving speed. Obviously, such violations are extremely dangerous and are a leading cause of life-destroying accidents."

"You can help the traffic situation," they concluded. "by your sensible, sane, sober driving. Please do more than your share to prevent accidents."

New driver comfort!
New driving ease!

New Chevrolet Trucks...

do more work per day... more work per dollar!

You save time in traffic. New truck Hydra-Matic transmission gets you off to smooth, time-saving starts without shifting or clutching. Imagine how easy this makes driving in traffic and on delivery routes! It's optional at extra cost on 1/2-, 3/4- and 1-ton models.

You save time on the highway. New high-compression power gets you up to highway speeds from a standing start in less time, and saves you time on hills, too. You make trips faster—and the new Comfortmaster cab makes them seem shorter. It's got everything!

You save extra trips, too. That's because of the extra load space you get in the new Advance-Design bodies. New pickup bodies are deeper... new stake and platform bodies are wider and longer. Also, they're set lower to the ground for easier loading.

You save on operating costs. High-compression power saves you money! The "Thriftmaster 235" engine, the "Loadmaster 235," and the "Jobmaster 261" (optional on 2-ton models at extra cost), deliver greater horsepower plus increased operating economy.

You save with lower upkeep. New Chevrolet trucks are built stronger to last longer and save you money on maintenance. There are heavier axle shafts in two-ton models... bigger clutches in light- and heavy-duty models... stronger frames in all models.

And your savings start the day you buy. In fact, they start with the low price you pay—and they never stop. Chevrolet, you know, is America's lowest-priced line of trucks. And it's also the truck that has a traditionally high trade-in value.

Come in and see how much you're ahead with America's number one truck. You'll like the way we're talking business!

PITCHING

By
Carl Hubbell

From the book "How to Play"

published by The Sporting News

Chapter 8

A WARM-UP PITCHER

Memory will be of increasing benefit to you the further you progress in baseball, because the higher minors and in the big leagues you face the same hitters for more than one season, and frequently for a long period of years. Your job against them may depend on memory.

If you don't remember readily, you must train your memory. Use a book if necessary at the start, to jot down the danger pitches, so that you may recall them, and impress them on your mind.

In this connection, it is true that big league pitchers must remember to throw to specific spots against certain hitters. But in starting out you should not worry about the spots. That is something you will not need for several years.

There will be an in-between period before you can consider pitching to spots. This in-between time comes after you are able to put your three pitches over the plate. Then you may begin working to keep the curve low, and the fast ball on the inside or outside of the plate, pitching to spots will follow, as a natural development.

To illustrate to you the biggest fault of all in a young pitcher, let's go to Melbourne once again, for a practice game.

I am impressed, and so are my friends and instructors by one pitcher as he warms up. He has a smooth, stylish delivery, with the essential follow-through. His pitches have sharp action and are always on or quite close to the plate. He is a dandy—warming up.

The same pitcher takes the mound in the game, and he has no recollection to the preceding young chap who played as much in the warm-up. His pitches are flying here and there. He walks and after he looks as if never had an hour's training in his life.

But the boy doesn't puzzle us. We know what is wrong. He has gotten all keyed up nervously, has forgotten about style, and is trying to throw the ball harder than he can throw it in doing so, he has twisted himself off balance, and has lost all smoothness, rhythm, and follow-through. It's a cliché he is not going to throw strikes.

We take that boy aside and ask him to throw his hardest.

to a practice catcher. We make him throw harder and harder. Of course, he does not come close to a strike. Then we tell him that is the only thing he is doing differently when he goes from the warm-up to the mound. If he is a good prospect who doesn't panic in a game, that's all the lesson he needs.

This is the key to correct the worst fault of young pitchers: Unless you have your balance, and feel loose and in control of your body on the mound, you cannot throw many strikes; an off-balance pitcher defeats all the instruction and all the practice he has had.

Never beat yourself, and always make the other club beat you. That is quite a broad statement. What I refer to are the two ways in which a pitcher can hurt his chance to win, and these are the base on balls and poor fielding of his position.

The walk is worse than anything else. It is the bug-a-boo of pitching. When you are in a close game you must be particularly careful not to walk the first man up in an inning. That starts more big innings than anything else. Be sure to make the hitter hit, and then you have a much better chance to get him out.

Fielding goes back to baseball instinct. Before the pitch, you have to size up the game situation: Runners on base, the score, the speed of the hitter, the inning. Then you anticipate what you will do if the ball is hit to you.

The fielding of the pitcher's position is very important. It requires a lot of work to master, and you should never miss an opportunity to field bunts and make throws on the instant to the bases.

Lots of boys come to Melbourne with strange ideas about training. Well, training is important but it is simple, too, and certainly nothing to worry you.

In starting your training for the season, whether you are going out for the high school team or a big league team, you must be careful to avoid being over-anxious. Don't try to impress the manager right off the bat. That is the critical time—the first week or ten days—when a fellow can hurt his arm.

GENERAL WILFRED KITCHING

SALVATION ARMY LEADER

Commissioner Wilfred Kitching, of London, England, has just been appointed general of The Salvation Army, succeeding retiring General Albert Orsborn. As the seventh international leader of the worldwide crusading Army, General Kitching will direct activities of the famous organization in more than 80 countries and colonies around the globe. The Army flag flies in nearly every country on the face of the earth except those behind the Iron curtain.

General Kitching's appointment was announced by the High Council of The Salvation Army after 12 days of deliberation and secret balloting at its Sunbury-on-Thames headquarters just outside London.

Prior to his election as General the 61-year-old leader, who has been a Salvation Army officer for more than 40 years, had been in charge of the organization's activities in Great Britain since 1951. The High Council consists of 48 Salvation Army leaders from territories around the world. The new General had to receive a two-thirds vote by the complete council before taking over command of all Salvation Army world-wide forces.

General Orsborn, 68, had held the top post for the last eight years.

Have you ever wondered what driving would be like if all other drivers followed your example? Our State Police ask: Would they obey speed limits? Would they slow down for intersections? Would they be careful not to pass on hills and curves? Would they give pedestrians the right-of-way at intersections? In other words, would your driving be a good or a poor example?
